A report prepared for GBPN on China's buildings policies analyses the total building stock, documents the growth of energy use and CO2 emissions, describes how policies are implemented, documents policy development for both new and existing buildings, provides an overall assessment of impact and discusses the future prospects. This is a must read for all global buildings experts.