

Mitigation Potential from India's Buildings

The GBPN

February 2013

The enormity of the country and pace of the current construction boom mean that India could experience a 700% increase in CO₂ emissions and energy consumption in buildings by 2050. With savings potential five times current energy use in buildings, GBPN reviews scenarios for mitigation and surveys current policy and potential for implementation.